The four men who claim that their boxes were robbed are Ed. Sturgeon, T. M. Murphy, George Rose and an unknown man. They claim that the money was placed in the boxes last night and when opened this morning was missing.

The officials of the safety deposit vaults deny the charge and say that they do not believe that any robbery was committed or that the men lost any money. No complaint has yet been made to the police.

Two watchmen are on duty night and day at the vaults and the two on last night deny that any one of the four boxes were opened by anyone while they were on duty and that no one was in the same tier of boxes during the entire night. They were locked in a cage inside the railing all night.

WHEAT AND OATS HAVE AN INNING

Both Make Good Advances in the Chicago Market and Shorts Are Squeezed.

Chicago, July 19.—Shorts in July wheat and oats were given their turn. They have had it easy while those in corn were being pushed. Oats jumped nearly 6 cents and wheat 3 1/2 cents, and after a wild break closed with a good rally at an advance. All the grain markets did better, with wet, stormy weather and reports of crop damage the factors.

New July oats, which has been selling at around 5c to 6c under cash lots, advanced 5 1/2c and sold at a premium for the first time this year. It started 3c higher at 5 1/2c, and advanced to 5 1/2c, suddenly fell to 5 1/4c, then worked up irregularly to 5 1/2c, and closed there, making a gain of 10c for the week. Old July opened at the best prices with sales at 47 1/4c, fell to 47 1/2c, only to advance and close at 47 1/2c, the top of the season. It was a hard market to trade in, as there were frequent fluctuations of 1/4c to 1c between trades, showing a thorough congested condition. It was the result of an oversold market with no stocks and slim chances of getting any this month to fill short sales. Heavy rains over Illinois and throughout the West have damaged the crop and removed the chances of a large quantity of oats being brought to Chicago to fill July sales. There is no stock here, and so far this month not a car load of "standard" oats, the new contract grade, has been put into store. Arrivals are light and stocks everywhere are exhausted.

GOVERNMENT AFTER COALING STATIONS

Should Have Four on the Cuban Island According to Reports.

Washington, D. C., July 18.—(Special.)—Cuba's request that the United States relinquish its coaling station in Havana harbor will be acceded to by the administration, but with regret by the navy. Rear Admiral Bradford, chief of the bureau of equipment will submit to Secretary Moody in a few days his response to the Cuban communication. This official has long advocated the establishment of a coaling station in Havana harbor, and he is responsible for the maintenance at Triscornia, just across the harbor from Havana, of 1,200 tons of American coal even after American withdrawal in May.

Rear Admiral Bradley officially informed the navy department some time ago that there were four points at which the United States should have naval and coaling stations—Havana and Nipe bay on the north coast of the island, and Cienfuegos and Santiago on the south coast. Havana was particularly desirable because a fleet using it as a base could control the passages leading into the gulf of Mexico and along the Atlantic coast of the United States.

Brig. Gen. Leonard Wood is held responsible for parting with the title of the United States to the property at Triscornia. The land at that point was partly purchased and partly leased, for a long term of years with the privilege of purchase at the end of that period. Just before the United States withdrew from the island General Wood turned the property over to the Cuban government and reimbursed the United States from the Cuban treasury.

The administration thoroughly approves of the action of General Wood and insists that it would have been an act of bad faith for this government to have retained possession of land in Cuba. But naval officers, looking at the matter from the standpoint of expediency, say that had the United States remained the owner there would have been but little real difficulty in obtaining Cuba's recognition of an existing situation. Active negotiations respecting the sites for coaling stations in Cuba will not begin until fall. As soon as Rear Admiral Bradford's views are received, unless they should show a condition with which the administration is not familiar, the removal of the coal from Triscornia will occur.

Towed into Halifax with Its Shaft Broken by a Merchant Boat.

FEAR IS RELIEVED

(Special By Scripps-McLae.) Queenstown, July 19.—The Cunard liner Etruria has arrived in this port without having sighted or heard of the missing steamer Belgenland. Up to the time of the arrival of the Etruria it was hoped that she had sighted the vessel and was bringing it to port.

ARMY OFFICERS MUST STUDY

Schools of Instruction Are To Be Opened for Teaching Them.

Washington, D. C., July 19.—(Special.)—Secretary Root today designated something like 100 officers of the various arms of the service who will be instructed at military schools. The details of the course of instruction at Fort Leavenworth, where the infantry and artillery officers will be instructed, have not yet been repeated. Boards of officers have been detailed to arrange the course, which has been two years at Fort Leavenworth, to comprise but one year.

Among the officers who are assigned to instruction at Fort Leavenworth are the eleven infantry and cavalry lieutenants who failed to pass their examinations for promotion and who will be, by orders of the secretary, suspended for one year. Some of the friends of these officers have been making desperate efforts to have the young men relieved from the suspension. Their case has been espoused by the senior officers, some of whom serve on the examining boards, and who have written Mr. Root that his decision is unjust, inasmuch as the young men did not have an opportunity to perfect themselves in their studies.

They insist that the fault is not with the officers who have been found wanting, and that the department should exercise leniency and at least reduce the period of suspension to six or nine months. Mr. Root has positively refused to listen to such appeals for departmental mercy. He insists that the law shall be carried out, and he maintains that he has no discretion in the matter. He has written a rather tart letter to some officers who have approached the department officially on the subject. He says that there is no excuse for failing in their examinations, and he says that they have time and opportunity to study, and he believes they should be made to suffer the consequences of their fate.

There will be under instruction also at Fort Leavenworth some thirty officers who have passed their preliminary examinations incident to being finally examined for commissions in the army. It is a new idea to give these men instruction before they become army officers, but Mr. Root believes that it will be beneficial to them and to the advantage of the service.

CONDEMNATION OF CONVENTION

State Issues Forgotten in Denouncing Resolutions Against Spooner.

ACT IS DEPLORED

Even the Administration and Democratic Papers Regret the Action Taken.

THE GENERAL OPINION

From all parts of the country. From leading republicans and democrats, from the republican and democratic press come words of praise for Senator Spooner, words of commendation of Spooner as a man, as a statesman and as a diplomat. From these same papers come words of condemnation of the action of the republican convention and forecasts as to the future of the party as a result of the action taken.

Spencer the man, Spooner the statesman and Spooner the diplomat. These three terms are predominant in the speeches of all the politicians are most noted in all newspaper editorials and the great loss that the state of Wisconsin, the whole nation would feel should he fail to be re-elected to the United States Senate.

Milwaukee News
In an editorial on the political situation the Milwaukee Daily News, Democratic, bemoans the coming defeat, as it terms it, of Wisconsin's chosen son. It says:

"There is absolutely no hope for Spooner. His seat has been paid for and the purchaser is preparing to claim the title. He may grovel at the feet of 'Bob,' he may shout reform from one end of the state to the other and urge stalwart support of the men that have humiliated him, but it would avail him nothing."

Administration Paper
The Oshkosh Northwestern says of the convention and the Northwestern supported the element that dominated the convention throughout the whole campaign, "Senator Spooner should ignore the action of the state convention which is certainly not binding to him in any manner and announce himself as a candidate leaving it to the people to do the rest." Coming from an avowed advocate of the Stevens Bill, the Ice Bill and other doctrines of the present platform this and the following from the same paper clearly shows the sentiment in even the opposition camp to the Senator for his re-election:

"In its eagerness to bind Senator Spooner to a certain course of conduct the state convention neglected to require the Governor to keep his hands off the coming senatorial contest. What is sauce for the goose is sauce for the gander."

New York Sun
Nor is this sentiment alone felt in the West. The eastern press, the eastern politicians, all recognize the great loss to the United States senate and to the nation at large that Senator Spooner's retirement will mean. The New York Sun says of Senator Spooner:

"Since the death of Philetus Sawyer, John C. Spooner has been the most conscientious republican. Elected a senator in 1885, he served for six years, until displaced by a democrat whom, in 1897, he succeeded by the almost unanimous vote of the Wisconsin legislature. His present term of service expires on March 3, 1903. Senator Spooner was a soldier in the civil war. He has been an assistant attorney general of Wisconsin, a member of the Wisconsin legislature, and a candidate for the office of governor. During his present term in congress he has been one of the most forceful, one of the most vigorous, one of the most convincing and one of the most enlightened of the advocates and upholders of the policies of the republican party and of the national administration."

"What Senator Spooner is and what in addition he is to republicanism is most adequately expressed by the fact that probably no one could recall a senator in whose re-election his party throughout the entire country ever expressed a keener and more feeling interest."

Nor is Wisconsin the only state in the West to deplore the action of the convention. The St. Paul Pioneer Press prints the following in its editorial columns last night:

Spencer Turned Down
"Republicans throughout the country will be deeply disappointed at the refusal of the Wisconsin Republican state convention to endorse Senator Spooner for re-election except upon certain specified conditions, which will obviously make it impossible for him, consistently with his self-respect to reconsider his expressed determination not to be a candidate for another term. It is quite probable that if Senator Spooner had been asked by the unanimous voice of his party, without qualification or reservation, to accept a re-nomination he might have receded from that determination—the understood reasons for which no longer exist. He could certainly have done so in that case without any loss of self-respect or without subjecting himself to any charge of vacillation or inconsistency. And such a spontaneous tender was due to him by the republican party of Wisconsin. For he is easily the foremost among

GOLF CLUBS ARE IN MUCH DEMAND

OVER A HUNDRED THOUSAND MADE EACH YEAR.

BEST ARE MADE BY HAND

Golfers Select Clubs That Are Best Suited to Their Style of Game.

It is estimated that not less than 100,000 golf clubs are manufactured in the United States every season. The increase of players throughout the country has been so rapid during the last few years that the demand that was formerly supplied by a few small factories and professional club makers has far outgrown them. Now there are several large factories in operation that turn out sticks by the hundreds in order to keep up with their orders. A golf club is a peculiar article. When a man first starts playing almost anything in the shape of a club will do, but as he progresses and gets onto the fine points of the game he begins to find fault with his clubs and look about for one that is suited to his peculiar style of play. These changes which are made by the players and the numerous clubs that are broken and worn out, create a demand for new ones.

The best clubs are those made by hand by professional club makers. The iron heads are hand forged and the shafts and heads for the woods, worked out by hand. The professional club maker also takes pride in selecting only the best wood for shafts and heads which will insure a perfect club.

While the factories now turn out clubs that are far superior to the former stock club, still there is a great deal of poor material used. Very little machine work is done on the really first-class article. After the shaft is sawed out it must be rounded and tapered into shape by hand. Part of the rounding is done by a shaft lathe, but the balance is done with a file a scraper and some sand paper. Most of the shafts come from tough second growth hickory and often fifty per cent. of the plank selected are thrown aside as being unfit for first-class shafts.

The heads of the best "iron" clubs are composed of soft steel and are forged out on the anvil by the blacksmith's hammer. The cheaper heads are drop-forged from iron being shaped in dies. Most of the companies manufacturing clubs have hundreds of sets of shafts, so that any club can be duplicated. Many of the players are such cranks about their clubs, that they will not have one unless it is just so and are willing to pay for having it perfect. When an expert gets a set of clubs that really suit him, they will last for a long time. He is careful about their usage and seldom breaks one. With the amateur the case is different and no matter how carefully a club is built the usage that it gets will soon put it in shape for the repairer. After the heads and shafts of a club are shaped the next process is to join them together. It is much easier to get a good joint on a driver or brassy where two pieces of wood are joined together, than it is where the shaft fits into an iron head. In factories the winding about the joints of a wooden club is done by a machine that will do the work in about a minute. The next operation is the putting on of the grip which is cut from horsehide or sheepskin. This is done by hand and an expert will put it on so that it seems to be part of the shaft. The horsehide is used on the best grade of clubs and the sheepskin on the inferior quality.

Varnish and shellac are the ingredients which give the club its glossy coat and preserve it from the effects of the weather. The coating of shellac is first put on and over this is applied one or more coats of varnish, which when dry are rubbed to a gloss. A man can start out with his kit in September and find links in readiness in some portion of the United States every month in the year. The golfing outfit has become as necessary a portion of one's baggage in the winter tour to the south or California, as when he starts away to spend his vacation in the Berkshires or by the seashore. Thus it is that some of the factories have more or less men engaged in the wood shop or blacksmith shop every month of the year, although the rush season can be said to be from the 1st of February to the 1st of May.

Pleasant Birthday Party
On Wednesday, the 16th twenty-five of the young friends of Miss Edna Brundage gathered at her home from 3 until 7:30 o'clock to assist her celebrate her twelfth birthday. Burr Oak.
Burr Oak, July 17.—The storm last Monday night did much damage in this vicinity, especially to the corn and oats.

Mrs. Henry Brace, who is visiting in Denver, Col., writes that there are hundreds of acres of corn under water in Iowa, that the glimpses that caught from the car windows as they sped along, show conditions very discouraging to the farming people in that state and especially so at Des Moines. In some places the current of water was as swift as Rock River. They were obliged to go two hundred miles out of their way on account of washed out bridges.

Mr. J. Carney has been confined to the house the past three weeks with his old trouble with his eyes. Mr. and Mrs. D. H. Helpling from Ohio, are visiting here and expect to go into camp on Rock River.

Taugher's assistant at Fond du Lac and if he accept the appointment he will leave Fond du Lac, about August 1. He will visit Lost Lake tomorrow to conduct services and meet the members of the parish. Lost Lake is situated about nine miles from Fox Lake and it is quite a distance from any railroad. WORK IN THE MACHINERY ROW

CHANGES IN THE COTTON MILL

Machines Moved to Cotton Works, Owing to Increased Business.

Several carding machines were transferred to the Rock River Cotton Co.'s works Friday from the old cotton mill building now occupied by the Marzuff Shoe factory. The apparatus will be used to meet the demand for an increased quantity of the products of the mill.

Clean Building
Several men are at work cleaning up both floors of the cotton mill building on the race just back of the shoe factory. The cotton milling machinery that formerly occupied the building has been taken down and carted off and both stories of the building will soon be free for whatever purpose the building is to be used.

Rumors Rife
There are a host of rumors afloat as to the use to which the building is to be put, but none of them are sufficiently authenticated for publication, and the only persons who are qualified to speak prefer to remain silent until the project has matured.

WANTED--A MAN WITH SOME MONEY

Y. M. C. A. IS READY FOR HIM

Would Enlarge Their Dormitories if They Could Secure the Cash.

Secretary Kline of the local Y. M. C. A. and the members of the building committee are eagerly looking about for some philanthropic individual with money to devote to a worthy cause, or some brainy individual with a plan for securing that same quantity of the coin of the realm or its equivalent. A building extension is needed, but whence will it come? Lack of dormitory room has made it absolutely essential that before the coming winter extensions should be made to the present quarters which will render it unnecessary to turn men away as has been done in time past.

No Rooms Vacant

There never has been a summer before when some of the rooms in the building have not been standing open a large part of the time. On the contrary this summer it has several times been necessary to turn men away who wished to secure single rooms.

Rooms Not Gymnasium

While it would be a fine thing to have additions made to the gymnasium that is not felt to be a vital point. So long as the facilities in that department are as good as they are and are not in the least taxed by the numbers who make use of them at present, extensions do not seem to be warranted in that direction. Doubtless an increase in membership would follow with the building of a running track and special apparatus of various kinds, but the present equipment is not sufficiently appreciated by the city to cause any great anxiety on the part of the management to provide accommodations for the gymnasium members. The dormitory section presents a truly serious problem and its solution is anxiously awaited.

Committee at Work

The committee has been doing what work it could but it has been hampered by the absence of members during the summer vacation. As yet no definite report has been made by them and nothing tangible has resulted from their labors thus far. Plans are under discussion and certain openings seem to have promise but time will be needed to perfect the arrangements of the committee.

Report to Board

The hope is that it will be possible to have a report ready for the next meeting of the board of directors. Just when this will take place is an open question. The summer outings of the members of the board are interfering with any meeting at the present time and will probably continue to do so for some time to come. Meanwhile the man with the millions or even a few hundred thousand will be welcomed if he is interested in the building plans of the Janesville Y. M. C. A.

WITH THE BOOKS.

Rueben Gold Thwaites.
Rueben Gold Thwaites, whose "Father Marquette" has just been published by D. Appleton Co., while his "Daniel Boone" will soon be ready was born in Dorchester, Mass., in 1853. His early education was obtained in the common and high schools of his native city, being supplemented by self-instruction in a collegiate course and a post-graduate course at Yale (1874-75). Immediately after its completion, he went West and became managing editor of the Wisconsin State Journal, published at Madison, Wis., where he has made an exhaustive study of his adopted state.

Mr. Thwaites was elected President of the American Library Association in 1900, and also Chairman of the American Historical Manuscript Commission. He is now Lecturer on American History in the University of Wisconsin. Mr. Thwaites' previous writing comprised historical works, relating chiefly to Wisconsin, New France, and the Middle West. He has edited the last seven volumes of the Wisconsin Historical Collections, "Chronicles of Border Warfare," a new edition of Kinzie's "Wau-Bun," and "The Jesuit Relations," a monument work in 73 volumes, recently completed. Mr. Thwaites' is Secretary of the State Historical Society of Wisconsin.

It Had to be Done.

The following story is told by Mr. James Barnes in an article on "A Hundred Years at West Point." In The Outlook as an illustration of the West Point idea of obedience and discipline:

During the war a young officer once reported to a volunteer commander, that he had orders from division headquarters, to take a battery that held the top of a sweeping slope on the front of the Confederate line, the shells from which were playing havoc with the Union infantry that were deploying through a wooded ravine.

"What!" exclaimed the volunteer brigadier; "are you going to try to take those guns with cavalry? Impossible! You can't do it!"

"Oh, yes, I can, sir," was the reply; "I've got the orders in my pocket."

This West Pointer did not doubt in the least what he was going to do, nor his capacity, and, strange to say, he did it, for, advancing at a charge suddenly from the wood across the open ground, he took the battery in the flank before they could change effectually the position of the guns, and he brought them back with him.

More than half the factory workers of the nation (52.2 per cent.) are in the nine North Atlantic States, while only 3.6 per cent. are in the Western division. In other words, one in every eight of the population of the North Atlantic states is in the factory while in the Western States the proportion is but one in twenty-one. In the South Central States—those of the lower Mississippi Valley—only one in forty-five of the population works within factory walls.—Mahan's Magazine, July.

White Violets.
White violets for one who is most white:
These captured snow-flakes I shall send to her.
And each will be a little messenger To tell of love and all love's wondrous light.

White on her breast, white ladye of my heart.
These little dreams of beauty she will wear;
And one, perchance, will nestle in her hair.
Whose darkened threads are of the night, a part.

White blossoms for one whither than the snow.
I send them with a word of tenderness,
That they to her my white thoughts may confess,
And whisper all the white love she should know.

LATE TELEGRAPHIC NEWS

CROPS RUINED
BY THE FLOODSIowa and Illinois Rivers Are Swollen by Continual Rains.

FARMERS ARE HEAVY LOSERS

Downpour at Many Points Amounts to a Cloudburst, Destroying Grain—Mississippi and Its Tributaries Are on a Rampage.Keokuk, Ia., July 19.—Heavy rains in central Iowa are sending a flood down upon Missouri river farmers which will ruin many of them and cause losses aggregating at a conservative estimate $2,500,000. There seems to be no hope for the country between the Mississippi river and its Missouri bluffs between Keokuk and Hannibal, Mo., 300 square miles, mostly corn land, with some thousands of acres of wheat in the shock.The water has touched the danger line and had begun to recede when heavy floods started again in the Des Moines, Skunk, and Iowa rivers. With a stage in the Des Moines river only three feet below the tops of the great levees, the river began to rise three inches an hour.

Levee May Give Way.

The weather bureau at Keokuk, in charge of this district, sent telegraphic warning to all points south to prepare for danger. The Egyptian levee is only slightly above the water, and the coming flood in the Des Moines will top it. This lets the water into hundreds of square miles, including the town of Alexandria, Md. The inhabitants there are preparing for an overflow of the entire town.It is believed the Illinois levees will hold and the damage there is likely to be only $20,000 to $30,000 between Keokuk and Quincy.

Big Rivers Rising Rapidly.

Keokuk, Ia., July 19.—Reports show tremendous rains along the Des Moines river and tributaries. Six inches fell at Corydon and nearly that much at Ottumwa. Rains all over this section continue, with two inches as a general minimum rainfall, and many reporting five inches. Both the Des Moines and Mississippi rivers are rising faster every hour.At Carroll the daughter of George Simons was killed by lightning.

FLOOD IN WILL COUNTY.

Spring and Hickory Creeks Swollen in Torrents.Joliet, Ill., July 19.—Joliet and the southern part of Will county were visited by a flood almost equal to that of June 2. Spring and Hickory creeks were swollen into torrents, and the district in the northeast and southern parts of the city were under several feet of water. The Bates Machine company and the McKenna steel plant were compelled to shut down on account of the high water.
The rainfall amounted to 3.3 inches.
A storm swept over Wilmington and Elwood, causing much damage to property and injuring four persons.

Alarm at Peoria.

Peoria, Ill., July 19.—The Illinois river is rising at an alarming rate at this point, and farmers along the lowlands are again anticipating damage floods. The city was visited by the heaviest electrical storm ever known.
One house was struck by lightning and destroyed.

Cyclone Kills Four.

Ottawa, Ont., July 19.—A cyclone struck the Chateaufort district in the Ottawa valley. Four persons are known to have been killed and many seriously injured. The wind destroyed everything in its path. Dwellings and outbuildings were overturned and in some cases torn to pieces. The property damage will reach $250,000.

THREE ARE KILLED IN COLLISION

Two Freight Trains Come Together, with Fatal Results.Rhineclander, Wis., July 19.—In a head-on collision between two freight trains on the Minneapolis, St. Paul & Sault Ste. Marie road Charles Johnson and William Raymond, engineers, and J. A. Anderson, fireman, were killed, and Frank Thorpe, a brakeman, seriously injured. The wreck occurred two miles west of Pembina.
Sixty cars, heavily loaded, went into a ditch, and, catching fire, were burned.

Whitelaw Reid changes his mind, there will be no special representative

Swansea, July 19.—The Welsh tripartite conciliation board, representing the masters and 18,000 men, have settled the dispute about wages, and a new schedule was agreed to, to be in made important concessions.

POSSIBLE PLACE FOR SPOONER

May Become Supreme Court Chief Justice if Vacancy Occurs.Washington, July 19.—If Senator Spooner shall fail to be re-elected to the Senate by the Wisconsin legislature, President Roosevelt is expected to nominate him for chief justice of the United States to succeed Chief Justice Fuller upon the retirement of the latter. If this vacancy should not occur, Senator Spooner, it is said, will get the first vacancy in the cabinet. It is the hope of the administration, however, that Mr. Spooner will be re-elected to the Senate.

AN INCREASEIndustrial Outlook Helped by Settlement of the Labor Troubles.

GRAIN PRICES AGAIN NORMAL

Removal of the Speculative Element from the Market Causes a Return to Business Basis—Iron and Steel Advance Strength.New York, July 19.—"Settlement of numerous labor controversies and prospects of early agreements as to other struggles have greatly improved the industrial outlook, while agricultural conditions steadily improve. As these have been the only unfavorable influences for some months, the prospects for active trade are decidedly encouraging. Preparations for unusually heavy fall sales are being made and confidence grows stronger. Mills and furnaces that have been idle on account of the usual overhauling resumed as rapidly as needed repairs could be made. Financial conditions are sound; the midyear dividend distributions producing no stringency, and speculation has been heavy for the same season, both in securities and staples." R. G. Dun & Co.'s weekly review of trade makes the foregoing summary of the industrial outlook. Continuing the review says:"Pig iron continues to command full prices, supplies falling below requirements and furnace deliveries failing to fill contracts.

Prices Are Maintained.

"Scarcity of fuel is still the principal drawback, while car and motive power shortage are additional causes of delay. Prices are fully maintained for the raw material, but billets weakened slightly. Importations have reached a considerable aggregate and more are expected. Structural material is still the feature. Railway needs do not diminish, despite the enormous amount of work already placed, and agricultural implement makers are fully employed. A general advance in prices of machine tools has occurred."Manufacturers of cotton goods hold prices steady although buying is only for imperative requirements. No concessions are offered by holders. Some curtailment of spinning is reported at southern mills, the tendency being to wait until new crop cotton comes forward. Export trade has increased.
Eastern shoe shops receive more orders. Prices are firmly held."Corn prospects have continued favorable, and with the removal of speculative influences there was a gradual decline in prices. Cotton rules steady, the outlook for a liberal yield being balanced by the strong statistical position."Failures for the week numbered 213 in the United States, against 193 last year, and 20 in Canada, against 12 last year."

which we thought would result in her death, but we had read your advertisement and we began to use your 'Favorite Prescription.' We got one dozen bottles to commence with,
and before she had taken three bottles she began to improve; she is living to-day and we have given your medicine the credit. My know her as a girl, but that was very superficial knowledge, you were both on dress parade. You antici-ipated her wishes then and she believed you to be the most genial, good natured man that the Lord ever created.

She imagined that love in a cottage would be a veritable paradise.

She enjoyed the church, the concert,

the opera, because you enjoyed them with her. Her tastes have not chang-demanding sacrifice and she has cheerfully submitted. She is the same girl today, with added years. Don't be

.....

The Republican party has just emerged from one of the most bitter struggles in its history. The victory won is destitute of glory and the defeated element find but little comfort in the results and yet life is too short to spend much time in mourning.

The party will continue to live and laugh at the efforts of the common enemy. Some amusing things have accrued during the campaign.

Up in Douglas county Ex-Governor

Scotfield was led to believe that if he would consent to be a candidate, that he county would be sold for him. He consented and a few days before the caucuses were held a friend in speaking of the situation, said:

"The ex-Governor will come down to the convention with Douglas county in a basket, which he will deposit on the table for the benefit of the Stalwarts."

The Governor was there with his wife, but without the basket, for the county went for LaFollette seven to one.

In Oconto county, a solid Stalwart delegation was elected, but the governor's forces, led by a Democrat, by the name of Miller, bolted and in a run-up convention, elected a set of delegates. The committee on credentials seated the Stalwarts, when

Miller went to the Governor with a protest, which resulted in the case being recalled and the delegation of eleven divided equally.

Dane county, Spooner's home, refrused to endorse him without an oath of allegiance. That is a good deal like a man swearing his wife to be virtuous, when away from home.

There is an element of grim humor running through the campaign and after the smoke clears away, it will be discovered that the sun still shines, with plenty of rain to make things interesting. Prosperity still perches on our banner and there is plenty of occasion to laugh and be happy.

Eau Claire Daily Leader: "What will the state press do now? There can be no more laudation or denunciation of the gubernatorial candidates.

No recriminations between stalwarts ures regarding the primary election thing will, no doubt, turn up, for the great constitutional feature in our system of government is that directly the acrimony of one convention is over, the acrimony of the next one begins."

Why start in to voice the true sentiments of the Republicans of the state and nominate and elect a Republican legislature favorable to John

C. Spooner, regardless of any faction.

MADISON HERE TO PLAY GOLF

THE LINKS ARE VERY WET AND PLAY POOR.

DINNER GIVEN AT CLUB HOUSE

Players Are Entertained by the Mississippi Club—Go Back Tonight.

A party of golf players from the Maple Bluff club of Madison, were the guests of the Mississippi Golf Club during the day and engaged in a team match on the home course this afternoon. It was expected that quite a delegation of ladies and gentlemen would accompany the team to this city and enjoy the hospitality of the club. The rain yesterday and this morning frightened out all of the ladies and quite a number of the gentlemen who were afraid of a rainy day.

Came This Morning
The visitors arrived on the 10 o'clock train this morning over the Northwestern and were met at the station by President McGinnis, Secretary Baker, Treasurer MacLean and a delegation of club members.

Taken to Grounds
Carriages were in waiting and conveyed the party to the grounds, where they were shown over the course. Those who came on the early train were F. W. Jacobs, A. M. O'Dea, F. R. Drake, F. M. Brown, A. B. Morris, A. W. Fressler, R. M. Kropp, J. F. A. Pyre, A. L. Sanborn, F. A. Sparling, and the club professional, F. Barsch.

Went Over Course
After going over the course the visitors were treated to a club dinner under the supervision of Mesdames J. P. Baker, Colin C. MacLean and Orion Sutherland. The line-up of the two teams for the afternoon match was arranged by Captain Kropp of the Maple Bluff club and Captain McGinnis of the Mississippi club was:

After the match was concluded luncheon was served to the visitors and club members who were present. The Madison players are a fine lot of gentlemen and are always welcome on the Mississippi course.

NEWS OF THE CITY IN BRIEF.

Marriage License: A license to marry was today issued to Robert W. West and Mary E. Welsh, both of Beloit.

No Band Concert: On account of the rain there was no band concert last evening. The rain has interfered almost every evening this season.

Dials Placed: The dials for the clock in the city hall were placed in position yesterday and are quite an improvement to the looks of the building.

Hoard's Party Tonight: Quite a number of Janesville young people are planning to attend the party at Hoard's Hotel this evening and stay to the concert on Sunday evening. Smith's orchestra will furnish the music.

Adkins Released: Merle T. Adkins, formerly pitcher for the Beloit college team did not last long in Boston, where he joined the Boston American League team. He was given the usual ten days' notice and released. Professional ball players and college ball players are entirely different.

Retail Clerks: The retail clerks of the city held a second meeting last evening for the purpose of organizing a local union. There were thirty-two clerks present, who came from all lines of business. Temporary officers were appointed and they will meet next Tuesday evening for organization. It is expected that a delegation from Beloit will be present at this time.

Lace Gloves.

Lace gloves, judging from the display in the shops, are to be the vogue this summer. They are of silk or lisle thread, clocked in geometrical or floral designs, much after the manner of the fashionable stockings. There is a return, too, of the "mitts" that our mothers admired, although it seems a little unlikely that these will be adopted except by the extremists, who welcome anything new.

Doctors in Europe.

The shortage of doctors in Russia is the subject of an article in a St. Petersburg Journal, which publishes statistics of the proportion of doctors in other European countries per 100,000 inhabitants. Great Britain heads the list with 180, Switzerland has 52, Germany 30, and Russia 8. In order to bring the percentage to the same level as Great Britain, Russia will have to have 120,000 doctors. At present there are only about 17,000.

Congressmen Much Alike.

Congressman Prince of Galesburg, Illinois, and Congressman Lloyd of Missouri, are frequently mixed up by those who do not know them intimately. Each has a handsome, flowing mustache, a fine, musical voice and easy, gentlemanly address.

Has Seen Church Grow.

Rev. J. Harrison Jones, pastor of a church of the Disciples in Alliance, O., has just passed his 89th birthday. He has been a preacher for over seventy years, and has seen his denomination grow from two or three small churches to a membership of 1,500,000. During the civil war he was chaplain of Garfield's regiment. He took part in the ceremonies at the murdered president's funeral.

LARGE EXCURSION TRAINS

Pass Through This City on the Way To Devil's Lake

Two large excursion trains from Carpentersville, Ill., to Devil's Lake, passed through here this morning about 9:30 over the Northwestern carrying the employees of the Illinois Holt & Iron Co. and their friends on their annual picnic. The first section consisted of ten coaches and the second of nine coaches. Baggage cars loaded with good things for the picnic were attached to both trains. It was estimated that there were 1,200 people on the two trains and they seemed to be enjoying themselves in spite of the damp weather.

ON AN AUTOMOBILE TOUR

Iowa Gentlemen Pass Through This City on Novel Outing

E. A. Sherman, of Cedar Rapids, Ia., and Fred I. Tene of Des Moines, Ia., passed through the city this morning on an automobile tour. They left Cedar Rapids on Wednesday and had a pleasant trip as far as Rockford. They came from Rockford here yesterday afternoon and were delayed considerably by the rain and mud. They left this morning for Milwaukee and expect to reach there this afternoon. Their machine was run by a six-horse power gasoline engine and they said that they had no trouble in getting over the muddy roads.

IS NOT KNOWN IN JANESVILLE

Man Reported Injured, Said To Be from This City, Not Known Here

Clifford Hartman, a brakeman, in the employ of the Northwestern, said to be a resident of this city, is reported as having been run over last night by a freight train, between Neenah and Appleton and had both feet cut off.

NOT KNOWN HERE.

Hartman's name is not given in the city directory and inquiry at the Northwestern station fails to show that he is in the employ of the company out of here. Inquiry in regard to the reported accident was made to the train dispatcher, last night and he said no accident had been reported to him.

A ROBBERY AT MILTON JUNCTION

Store of D. E. Thorpe Entered by Burglars, and Cash Drawer Looted.

Sheriff Maltress received a telephone message this morning from Milton Junction that the safe in D. E. Thorpe's general store had been blown open by robbers and the contents stolen.

Some Money

The message stated that the robbers secured about six dollars in money and a package of notes. They gained entrance to the store by the way of a rear window and made short work of opening the safe. A hole was bored in the door near the combination and a charge of explosive inserted. The charge must have been quite heavy as it made a complete wreck of the safe and left the contents open to the robbers.

Work of Experts

It is supposed that the work was done by experts as the robbery was not discovered until this morning.

COURT DOINGS

The suit of Mary Monahan vs. Ann Cribben was brought up before C. W. Reeder for trial yesterday afternoon. A verdict of non-suit was handed in by Justice Reeder on the ground that Ann Cribben was married and that the action in the case did not concern her separate state.

Grand Opening Tonight

On this evening Dan Sheridan will have a grand opening at his new saloon at the corner of River and Pleasant streets, and it will be a big event. His new place is one of the finest in the city, and will be opened with all the honor it deserves. The opening will be both afternoon and evening and music will be furnished by the Baldwin & Rehfeld orchestra. A big roast lamb lunch will be served in the evening.

The Oldest Baptist Minister.

The oldest Baptist minister in the country is Dr. William Howe of the Broadway church, Cambridge, Mass. His birthday fell on Sunday, May 18, when he was 96 years old. On that day he preached to his congregation as usual.

Present Pastor with Annuity.

Rev. Hector Hall on demitting his pastorate over the Second Presbyterian church of Troy, N. Y., after a service of nearly fifteen years, has been presented by the congregation with an annuity policy, yielding an annual income of $800 for the remainder of his life.

A SMASH-UP AT ROCKFORD FRIDAY

The Freight Train Leaving Here at 4 A. M. Yesterday, Damaged—No One Hurt.

There was a serious mix-up of freight trains on the St. Paul road Friday morning, about four o'clock, at the West State street crossing in Rockford. A freight train, which leaves here during the evening, collided with a gravel train that was pulling into Rockford and had stopped on the crossing to take water. The train crew knew that a freight was due about that time, but they figured that they could take water and get away before the arrival of the freight.

While they were standing there, the headlight of the train was sighted, but it was then too late to get the gravel train under motion and get away.

Both Jumped.

The engineer and fireman of the freight engine saw the condition of affairs and realizing that a collision was inevitable, they leaped from the cab. The engineer landed safe, but the fireman bruised a knee somewhat.

The engine of the freight train crashed into the caboose at the end of the gravel train and smashed it to splinters. The trucks of the caboose rolled under the engine of the freight and stood the latter on end at an angle of about 45 degrees. There was no one in the caboose so that no one was injured in the accident save the freight fireman and he was little the worse for wear.

Had Slowed Down.

The freight had slowed down somewhat so that the shock of the collision brought it to a standstill in short order and with the exception of the demolished caboose and the smashing of the front part of the engine of the freight the damage was not considerable.

Engineer Puffer had charge of the freight engine. He had just time to reverse the engine and leap after seeing the end of the gravel train. His fireman was named Hobart.

HAVE BEEN WEDDED ONE YEAR

Event Happily Celebrated By Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hayner

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hayner of the town of Rock entertained a company of relatives yesterday in honor of the first anniversary of their marriage. Guests were invited from Sioux City, Ia., Evansville, Janesville and vicinity. It had been planned to make the occasion a picnic in the grove near the pleasant farm home of Mr. and Mrs. Hayner, but the inclemency of the weather caused the company to "take to the house."

An elaborate dinner demonstrated that the cuisine of the Hayner home is in capable hands. An interesting fact in connection with the occasion, was that the day was also the birthday anniversary of Miss C. E. Bucklin, of Evansville, and Master Stanley Brink, of Janesville, aunt and cousin of the hostess.

MY GATE IS SHUT.

My gate is shut, my door is fast,
My door, that used to stand so wide—
No sudden restless shadows cast
On the bright sunny space, outside—
No faces sweet, no footsteps free,
Cross the still threshold—stone to meet
My gate is shut. My garden beds Lie dead and level in the sun,
Where, where I watched the flitting heads
And where the young feet used to run,
The slow winds stir, the swift birds pass
With silent wings above the grass.
The door is fast. I move the blind;
What is it that I dumbly seek?
What can my sad eyes hope to find?
Nor dancing curl, nor laughing cheek,
Nor eyes upraised, nor merry cry
Of gladness greeting, or good-bye.
My little children! Mine not long Yet always mine, heart locked in heart—
Mine, though they move where angels throng.
And so I wait, and watch, apart;
Faint, with sweet faith, and patience—but My door is fast, my gate is shut.

THE WOOLING OF
A HYPNOTIST

By ELLIOTT FLOWER.

(Copyrighted by Daily Story Pub. Co.)

IT CAME to her as an inspiration.
He had taken a seat at a distance of about six feet from her, as was his invariable custom when he called, and his innate bashfulness and diffidence had made his conversation just about as uninteresting as usual. He knew why he was there and she knew why he was there; he knew why he called with such regularity, and she also knew it; but he failed to put the reason in words, and of course it would have been unmanly for her to do it.
He was awkward and ill-at-ease, but nevertheless from a social and worldly point of view he was distinctly "el-ligible." If their positions had been reversed, it would have been all over in five minutes, but, as it was, all her efforts to give him the encouragement and confidence necessary had been without result.

Then, as before-stated, a brilliant idea flashed upon her.
"Are you at all interested in the subject of hypnotism?" she asked.
"No," he replied, gratified that she had come to his rescue with a subject for conversation just as the silence was becoming really embarrassing. "I never have given it any thought."

"But you should," she said.
"Do you really think so?" he asked.
"Oh, I know it," she answered. "I am sure you have the latent power in you to make a wonderful hypnotist."
"But you—I should think you would be successful in that," he suggested, secretly flattered and pleased by the intimation that he had the will power to control the action of others.
"On the contrary," she replied, "I am an excellent subject, but that is all. I have experimented a little with some of the girls, and have proved a miserable failure, except as a subject."

"TALK ABOUT RAPTURE!"

"Any one of them seems to be able to influence me, and they have made me do some of the most absurd things you ever heard of. You ought to try it some time and find out what power there may be in you; it's lots of fun."
"But I don't know how to try it," he returned regretfully.

"Oh, I can show you that," she said.
"You take something bright—a piece of silver or anything like that—and hold it directly in front of the subject's eyes. Then you tell him to concentrate his gaze and thought on that bright object, while you concentrate your thoughts on subjugating his will to yours. I'm sure a man of your force of character and intensity of purpose would soon be in complete control of the subject. You might try it with me and see if you understand. Of course, it will only be a make-believe trial, because—because we're all alone, you know, and it will do no harm to see if you know how to go about it."

Of course he was quite ready to make the experiment. The fact that he had to hold a silver dime before her eyes gave him an excuse for getting reasonably close to her, and he had devoted several months to the task of finding an excuse to draw his chair right up to hers. As a matter of fact, he was much nearer to being hypnotized at that moment than was she, but he didn't know that. He produced the necessary dime, and with a mixture of nervousness and hesitation put himself where he could hold it before her eyes. The thrill of pleasure he experienced in finding what had heretofore been insurmountable difficulties thus easily overcome prevented him from concentrating his thoughts to any appreciable extent but nevertheless he soon noticed that her eyes seemed to have become abnormally large and that there was a vacant stare in them that seemed to indicate an unusual state of mind.

"Good heavens!" he exclaimed under his breath. "I wonder if I have already hypnotized her. I never imagined I had so strong a will."
Neither did anyone else, but of course he didn't know that.
Slowly he withdrew the silver piece, but she made no motion to indicate that she was conscious of any change.
"Martha!" he said, in some alarm.
"I am here," she replied.
The sound of her voice reassured him, while her words clearly indicated that she was not in her normally intelligent state of mind.
"She is mine," he said to himself, with a sudden thrill. "All mine. My will predominates and she will do what I say, and—and hypnotized people never remember what happens."
The joy of it made his blood tingle, but still he was cautious. He moved to a divan on the other side of the room, and said: "Come here to me, Martha."
She went to him without a word.
"Sit down beside me," he said.
She sat down.
"Give me your hand,"
She gave it to him.
"And she doesn't know a thing about it," he said to himself. "Oh, but this is easy."

It took him two or three minutes to get up his nerve for the next move, but he finally did it.
"Rest your head on my shoulder," he commanded at last, although not without some hesitation, and as she did it his arm stole round her waist.
"Talk about rapture!" he muttered.
His heart was beating like a trip-hammer, but for ten minutes he sat there without moving. Then he heaved a deep, happy sigh and asked himself:
"What would the world do without hypnotism?" Suddenly, however, a doubt came to disturb him. Would he be able to bring her out of this hypo-notic state without calling in the family? Instantly he was in a cold perspiration, and he resolved to end the seance right there, if possible, but—Well, a kiss certainly would not complicate matters any more. He got it.
Then he set himself to the task of breaking the hypnotic spell. Afterward he had occasion to recall how easily it was done, but at the time his relief was too great to permit him to think of the extraordinary nature of the fact that he did it on his first trial. He merely snapped his fingers before her eyes, and she slowly turned them on him with a wondering, questioning gaze.

"What happened to me?" she asked at length.
He blushed.
"Don't you know?" he inquired.
"No," she answered.
He didn't tell her—that is, he didn't tell her all. He simply said that he had unintentionally hypnotized her, but a close observer must have noticed that when he left the house that night he stepped as if he was walking on air.
And he called again the next evening.
He usually let a day or two intervene between his calls, but on this occasion he failed to do so. He wanted to make another experiment, he said. He had been looking the matter up and had discovered that he had overlooked a most important test. The experiment was more protracted on this occasion, but it failed to bring him any nearer the goal of his desires—and hers. To have a hypnotized girl was a decided luxury in its way, but it did not give him the courage he needed when she was in her right consciousness.

The third evening she protested.
"What do you do when I am under the influence of your will?" she demanded.
"I—why, I—that is, I don't do anything," he answered, "but if ever a falsehood showed in a man's face it did in his when he said: 'I—I simply make you do various things to demonstrate my control over your will and actions.'"

"I'd like to know what they are," she insisted. "Suppose you just pretend I am hypnotized and tell me what to do. I'll promise to do it just as I would in my irresponsible state. I want to learn the nature of your experiments."

"But—but that wouldn't demonstrate anything," he argued.
"Foolish man! It would have demonstrated more than all his hypnotic experiments combined."
"Oh, well," she said, resignedly, "if it is of any intellectual or other advantage to you, go ahead. But really I think it would be ever so much better if I were conscious of what was happening, don't you?"

He winced, and his face fairly burned.
In fact, he was so disconcerted that he failed to notice the gleam of triumph in her eyes as he began his usual experiment. If he had possibly he would have been better prepared for what happened when it was over. He had scarcely, as he thought, removed the spell, when she suddenly exclaimed:
"Why, what's that on your coat?" A moment later, after a hasty and interested inspection, she added: "Why, —why, it's face powder; and there's some on your mustache, too. Percy Wallington, I demand to know what you make me do when I am thus placed in your power! It is my right, sir, and I demand an explanation. What advantage have you taken of my poor, weak will?"

What could he say? What could he do? Clearly nothing but make a clean breast of the whole affair. He hesitated and stammered, grew red and then white, and finally, driven to desperation, blurted out: "Forgive me, Martha, but I—I love you. I did make you put the powder there, but it was because I—that is, I want you to marry me."

"Oh, Percy!" she cried, "this is so sudden!"

GIVE $50,000
TO STRIKERSIllinois Miners Vote That Sum

in Pennsylvania.

CONVENTION PLANS MORE AID

Expects to Raise $500,000 by Means of Assessments on Those Who Remain at Work—Committee Named to Devise Ways and Means.

Indianapolis, Ind., July 19.—Difference of opinion as to the manner of levying and distributing the tax on all miners to aid the strikers resulted in long debates and a secret session in the United Mine Workers' convention.

All talk of a general strike in sympathy with the anthracite workers has ceased. The only question now is to what extent the recommendations of President Mitchell are to be adopted.
At the conclusion of the secret session, the recommendations were referred to a special committee. This committee consists of President Mitchell, Vice President Lewis, Secretary Wilson and the president of each district.

It is practically certain the committee will urge the adoption of the recommendations of President Mitchell and the levying upon the members of the union of an arbitrary assessment of $1 per week where there is no check office, and of 10 per cent per week in localities where there is a check office. It was also decided to use all the funds to be raised for the strikers in the anthracite district.

At the opening of the executive session Vice President Lewis delivered an energetic speech on the amendment offered by Delegate Haskins, to the effect that the fund to be raised for the aid of the anthracite miners be extended to all of the striking miners where their strike has been sanctioned by the general organization. He declared all of the miners should be taken care of in like manner.

To Aid Anthracite Men.
President Mitchell spoke for the adoption of the recommendations made in his opening speech. He said that the assessment under discussion was necessary for the support of the anthracite strike alone and should not be diverted from its purpose.

"It is possible other strikes may come," he said, "and then, under the precedent which a general distribution of the fund would create, these later strikes could claim their share in the fund and it would be so depleted as to fall entirely of its purpose."

He declared the cost of maintaining strikes varied according to places and conditions.

"In the anthracite regions," he said,
"the country is thickly settled. There are mills and factories, and it is possible for the men on strike to secure employment. They are then no burden on the general organization, but are even able to help it. In West Virginia there are but two vocations for the miner—mining and farming.
The latter is out of the question for the greater part of the men if not for all of them, and they have no chance for employment when on strike. It costs much more per capita to keep up a strike in West Virginia than in the anthracite regions. The anthracite strike is, in fact, the cheapest strike we can have. We should not allow it to go down in defeat by diverting the funds necessary for it."

Against General Strike.
Mr. Mitchell assured the convention the strike in the Pittsburgh district and all other strikes would be looked after without splitting the fund and again urged the men to disclaim from their minds all thought of a general strike. His remarks were greeted with cheers.

A vote was then taken on the Haskins amendment, and it was voted down by a decisive majority. This left before the convention the original motion for the adoption of the recommendations of the president.

Secretary Wilson said: "It will cost $500,000 weekly to support all the men now on strike in the various districts. An assessment of $1 per week will bring in $250,000 a week. This will leave us $250,000 to raise each week from outside sources, and from the promises and offers that have been made us we are confident that we will be able to do this."

The miners of Illinois have voted a donation of $50,000 to the cause of the anthracite strike. The money will be available at once.

WOMEN'S NERVES.

Extract From a Letter Received by Mrs. Pinkham. How Familiar
These Words Must be to Many.

"I am so nervous and wretched." "I feel as if I should fly." How familiar these expressions are! Little things annoy you and make you irritable. You can't sleep, you are unfit for ordinary duties, and are subject to dizziness.

That bearing-down sensation helps to make you feel miserable.
You have backache and pains low down in the side, pain in top of head, later on at the base of the brain.

Such a condition points unerringly to serious uterine trouble.
If you had written to Mrs. Pinkham when you first experienced impaired vitality, you would have been spared these hours of awful suffering.

Happiness will be gone out of your life forever, my sister, unless you act promptly. Procure Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound at once. It is absolutely sure to help you. Then write to Mrs.
Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass., if there is anything about your case you do not understand.

You need not be afraid to tell Mrs. Pinkham the things you could not explain to the doctor—your letter will receive attention from women and is absolutely confidential. Mrs. Pinkham's vast experience with such troubles enables her to tell you just what is best for you and she will charge you nothing for her advice.

Mrs. McRae Tells of Happy Results Accomplished by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I suffered with womb trouble, backache, nervousness and dizziness, and when walking had that bearing down feeling, but thanks to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I am now entirely well. I have no more pains or aches, can do my work, and walk without any bad feeling. I will recommend your medicine to every one I can."—Mrs.
Geo. McRae, 14 Center St., Yonkers, N.Y. (Dec. 20, 1900.)

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I can truly state that I derived great benefit from the use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound during Change of Life. I was so nervous that I could not sleep, my feet and limbs would swell and pain me a good deal, and I suffered in other ways. I took six bottles of your Compound and cheerfully recommend it to all."—Mrs. A. M. McCARRICK, Canton, Pa. (Feb. 10, 1901.)

unqualified endorsement. Refuse all substitutes.

$5000 REWARD
Owing to the fact that some skeptical people have from time to time questioned the genuinity of the testimonial letters we are constantly publishing we have deposited with the National City Bank of Lynn, Mass., $5,000, which will be paid to any person who will show that the above testimonials are not genuine, or were published before obtaining the writer's special permis-

CONDEMNNS ACTION OF CONVENTION

the Republican leaders in the senate. His pre-eminent position in that body reflects high honor upon the State of Wisconsin. That he should continue to represent Wisconsin in the senate is of far greater importance to Wisconsin and to the Republicans of Wisconsin than it can possibly be to him. He cannot be robbed of the splendid reputation he has made. But the state will suffer from the loss of so able and distinguished a representative in the senate.

"During the campaign for the gubernatorial nomination the friends of LaFollette everywhere professed great regard and admiration for Senator Spooner and were prone in protestations of their desire for his re-election. Their friendly attitude toward Spooner no doubt contributed to the decisive triumph of LaFollette, whose supporters numbered two-thirds of the convention. Those who questioned the sincerity of these professions find their doubts more than confirmed by the action of the LaFollette majority. With honeyed phrases of praise on their lips they pledge him the enthusiastic support of his party for re-election to the high position that he has filled with such distinguished ability and with such great honor to the state and to the nation, provided he will pass with bowed head under the caudine forks of submission to LaFollette's particular plan in state politics. The condition imposed upon him is that he accept the LaFollette principle of state policy declared in the platform, that all caucuses and conventions for the nomination for state, legislative and congressional offices shall be abolished by the legislature and that all nominations for these offices shall be made by direct vote of the people.

Now this, especially in the extent of its application of the direct vote is a new experiment in the method of nomination, and, to say the least, a doubtful and hazardous one, since it involves a complete departure from the representative system which lies at the foundation of all republican government. Whatever may be the views of Senator Spooner, thereon, to require his acceptance of this direct vote proposition as a condition of his re-election to the United States senate, which has nothing in the world to do with such questions, and to impose any conditions not germane to his duties as a United States senator or to the national issues with which he has to deal, was plainly intended to be offensive to him—to place him in a humiliating attitude before the people of Wisconsin before he could again become a candidate. It is safe to say that Mr. Spooner will not accept this tender of enthusiastic support of the LaFollette men on the conditions imposed on him. It is equally safe to say that Gov. LaFollette and his friends knew that he would not, and that thus favoring, as they think, cunningly maneuvered to get Spooner out of the way, the only obstacle will be removed from the path of LaFollette's ambition to succeed him."

Swedish Women Firemen.

The little town of Massos, in Sweden, has a female contingent, 150 strong, in its fire brigade. The water supply of the village consists simply of four great tubs, and it is the duty of the women "firemen" to keep these full in cases of fire. They stand in two continuous lines from the tubs to the lake some distance away, one line passing the full buckets and the other sending them back.

Chinese Christians.

At present out of the 100,000 Chinese in the United States, 1,600 are Christians. Much is being done in the hope of Christianizing the 98,400 who are worshipping the gods of their fathers. Evening schools have been instituted and the homes for Chinese slave girls have rescued 1,000 girls and women.

A dispatch from Richmond, Va., of May 20, says that, to prevent the people from reading the Sunday newspapers, and patronizing excursions on Sunday, the Methodist ministers of Richmond propose to publish a paper which shall contain only what they think people should read on Sunday, and distribute it free. They are also providing for counteracting entertainments.

THE SACRIFICE OF SPOONER.

Milwaukee Daily News: By decree of Robert M. LaFollette, John C. Spooner must become a "Populist" or abdicate. The Republican party of Wisconsin, voicing views through the medium of the services of John C. Spooner in the United States senate and condemning him in a resolution denouncing the pernicious activity of federal officials, men who owe their appointments to Senator Spooner's recommendations, in working the repudiation of the Republican platform pledges.

However, if Mr. Spooner should find it impossible to reconsider his unalterable determination to retire to private life "and express his willingness to stand as a candidate in harmony with sentiment and in support of the platform principles here adopted," and for the election of a legislature favorable to their inaction into law, his decision would meet the general approval of Republicans everywhere.

But, "in case Senator Spooner shall not find it possible again to be a candidate for United States Senator, we demand that all candidates for this position shall endorse the principles of this platform; and favor the election of a legislature pledged to enact these principles into law."

Yesterday The Daily News said: In advance of the action of the convention, that, "it is doubtful if Spooner can be prevailed upon to swallow what he professes to believe is 'Populism' for the sake of an office, election to which he has declared is a matter of indifference to him. He well understands that any resolutions that the convention may adopt, under the circumstances, will have no binding force on the legislature. A resolution endorsing him will be merely the opinion of the convention, made less valuable by the fact that it will not be the convention's honest opinion. The 'reformers' understand this fact fully. They do not propose that John C. Spooner, the man whose name and prestige have been used in an unsuccessful effort to wipe them out of existence, shall be continued in public life at their hands. They will endorse him, and in doing so, they will make Spooner, the 'greatest statesman Wisconsin has ever produced,' ridiculous. Insult will be added to injury, and made ridiculous by the convention, the legislature, with 'reform' triumphant, will give to him his inevitable finish." Could the treatment of Spooner have been more truly described, told in the light of the convention's action?

In the humiliating position in which he has been placed, the only thing for Spooner to do, is to write another statement reaffirming his former unalterable determination to retire to private life. He can not become a "Populist" and retain the respect and support of the stalwarts, and he can not in justice to himself, continue in the embarrassing position in which he has been placed by the factional politicians of his party.

Evening Wisconsin: No charge of misconduct, either in business or political affairs is made against Mr. Stephenson.—Oshkosh Times, Dem.

What's that! Have you forgotten the articles which appeared in the Milwaukee Sentinel at the time your Uncle Ike was a candidate for United States senator, and when that paper was under the management of the enthusiastic young men who are now running Mr. Stephenson's own paper? Was it creditable to Mr. Stephenson that he defied the corrupt practice act after so much had been said about his wealth in connection with the senatorship?

Appleton Post: A Marinette dispatch of Saturday, states that the failure of the convention in that county to endorse Senator Spooner, is generally interpreted there to mean that Mr. Stephenson, who controlled the convention, will himself be a candidate for the senate. In that case, Uncle Ike will show 'em by practical illustration how hard a thing it is to "buck up against money!"

Evening Wisconsin: "You can resolve till the cows come home," in the interest of another view, but Senator Spooner is the choice of the people of Wisconsin to succeed himself in the United States' senate, this will insure his re-election next winter, if care is taken to elect members of the legislature who are unequivocally for Spooner.

Eau Claire Telegram: The situation could easily become one of great peril for the Republican party in this state; and seldom before has it been so imperatively necessary as it is now, that the people give close attention to issues and events.

GET NINE-HOUR DAY AT NINE HOURS' PAY

Illinois Arbitration Board Decides —Streator Case to Satisfaction of Workers.

Springfield, Ill., July 19.—The state board of arbitration has announced its decision in the dispute between the Barclay Company of Streator and its employees. The question involved was whether the men should have a nine or ten hour day. The board gives them a nine-hour day with nine hours' pay, which is all that the employees were asking. The board says in the course of its decision:

"We regard it as conclusively settled that shorter hours for the workmen are desirable from every point of view, wherever practicable. We recognize the fact that in certain crafts and under certain conditions a day of eight or nine hours is not feasible. Yet the shortening of the hours of labor is a part of the industrial evolution, and we are under the conviction that whenever a case is presented involving only a question of hours all doubts should be resolved in favor of the shorter day."

ANDREWS MAY SETTLE WITH DETROIT BANK

Attorney Kirchner States That the Defendant Hopes to Pay Every Cent He Owes.

Detroit, July 19.—Attorney Otto Kirchner contributed the leading feature in the trial of Frank C. Andrews, when, in opening the case for the defense, he stated that Andrews still believed he was a very rich man and able to pay every cent he owes the wrecked City Savings Bank. The impression had prevailed that Andrews had lost everything through speculation in Amalgamated Copper.

"Mr. Andrews will go on the stand and tell you he hopes to pay every cent he owes the bank," said the attorney in addressing the jury, creating a ripple of surprise by the announcement that Andrews would take the witness stand. "Mr. Andrews did not intend to cheat the bank. He thought he was a rich man. He thinks so still."

When court adjourned State Banking Commissioner George L. Maltz was on the stand, the commissioner being the first witness for the people. He had identified a number of the bank's reports, and recounted the events of Feb. 8 and 10 last, the latter date being the one on which the bank was closed.
